MISSRS. EDITORS:

Being a novice in politics, and, therefore, ignorant of the present political situation, we come to you for information. Is there at this time a party known as Radical or Republican in this State, and have they made a nomination for President and Vice President of the United States, and have they put forth a platform of principles?

We are much obliged and ask these questions because there was a gentleman from your town, (a "Jeffersonian" Democrat by declaration) delivered a speech in our town Saturday night last.

During the whole course of his talk of more than an hour, he never mentioned the name or threw any light upon the matter. We were the more astonished at this from the fact we heard this very same gentleman four years ago under the very same circumstances and from the very same Democratic platform, (as he alleges), however the Republican party most vigorously, from the Chief Magistrate down to the lowest "Carpet Bagger" that infested the South.

We concluded therefore that the enemy was dead, played out, we are correct? We secured a good position and listened attentively to his speech, hoping to be enlightened upon Federal politics and learn something of the movements of both parties; "but never once," we were disappointed.

The speaker had not proceeded far before we felt "we had heard" the same speech, and when he went to that part where he said Hugh McCulloch, Sandusky, Funderlin, Blodget, Bentzholders, &c; we felt sure that we had heard that same speech, and began to shake up our brains and turn back the pages of memory until we came to the fall of '79. Here it became plain, this was the very same man and the very same speech spoken to the very same people one year ago when pleading for their suffrage for a seat in the State Senate. Now, we once began to reason of this speech were necessary and in place when the gentleman wanted to go to the State Senate, how is it applicable and necessary to elevate Hancock to the Presidency of the United States? We confess that we could not see the point, and were left to the conclusion that the gentleman had it very bad on the brain, and nothing else would come out "worth a cent" or fearing that the people in those efforts to elect a Democratic President would overlook his interests, he thought it best to keep saying his piece over and over, and over again, lest when the time should come for a County election, he might be turned down and out.

The gentleman did make one slight digression from the OLD SPEECH, by telling us people that Democracy meant majority. Again we began to reason if Democracy is simply majority, then the "Old Republican Party" having been in the majority for sixteen years prior to 1875, therefore they had become the Democratic party of the country. This explains away the seeming inconsistency in the gentleman's position.

Please give the subject a thorough airing, and oblige, an ENQUIRER.

P. S.—We wish to get the gentle man's speech full justice. We neglected to say that he did mention Gen. Hancock's name once, by saying that he had nominated or announced him five weeks before the meeting of the Cincinnati Convention. What a pity the gentleman did not inform the National Executive Committee. It might have saved to the party thousands of dollars, and much trouble.

During the discussion both speakers were cheered by their friends in the audience. Judge Allen's remarks we are satisfied caused a number of persons in the audience to see the leaders of this 7th July ticket in a different light from what they had formerly viewed them, and we were sorry that his engagements were such that he could not meet Capt. Paul at Forestville the following day when the people proposed to raise another Hancock and English pole.

THE COMPROMISE TICKET.—The mass meeting called for last Saturday, July 31st, favoring an Electoral ticket, composed of five Electors to be selected from each wing of the Democratic party, the National Democratic Committee selecting the 11th Elector, was not as largely attended as expected, partly owing however to the printed letter circulated through the Districts having been signed by many voters, who thought it unnecessary to be present on Saturday. Two hundred and five names were enrolled, several additional lists with signers have yet to be received from other parts of the country, which we expect will enlarge the roll to 400 voters. The letters will be enclosed next week to Messrs. Koine and Gen. Mahone chairman of the respective State Democratic Committees.

FIRE AT GREENBRIER WHITE SULPHUR.—A fire broke out in the loft of the stable belonging to the White Sulphur Springs Company, located a quarter of a mile from the hotel and cottages, and spread so rapidly, the loft being full of hay, that the building was entirely destroyed and forty-four horses were burned to death in a short time. Twenty of the horses belonged to the company and twenty-four were owned by the guests, some of them being very valuable. The carriages were all saved and great efforts were made to rescue the poor animals, but they became so frantic and kicked so furiously that the most daring coachman, hostlers and others present were unable to save their pets. The stable was a frame one of little value and not insured. Of the most valuable horses belonging to the guests Mr. Cochran lost three, Gov. Mathews one, Prof. Devereux one, Mr. Carrington four, Mr. Anderson four, Dr. Moorman one, Mr. Delaplaine two, Mr. Ford two, and Mr. Montague, of Baltimore, one.

VERY NEAR AN ACCIDENT.—A conveyance en route for the camp-meeting on last Sunday, containing half dozen young gentlemen, of whom half were uncoupled and a general stampede of the gents took place—the horses were easily managed and no harm resulted from the accident.

A NUMBER of our small boys are now practicing on a gymnasium which has been erected near the depot. One or two arms have been broken or joints dislocated, but up to this time, none have been killed. So long as it is well attended, our accident column will be well supplied with fresh locals.

QUICKSBURG, VA. Aug. 2, 1880,
Editor Herald:

Friday 2 P. M. July 30th the people of Quicksburg and surrounding country turned out in considerable numbers to assist in raising a Hancock and English pole and to hear a discussion by Capt. Paul and Judge Allen.

Had it been more generally known that the latter would be present the attendance would have been larger.

Under the supervision of our friend "General" Guiz, ably assisted by Messrs. Grandison, Bowman and others, with a large crowd willing to lift and push, the pole went up beautifully, without any trouble or accident of any kind, although such undertakings are always attended with some danger.

After raising the pole we repaired to the woods one hundred yards west of the village to listen to the discussion.

Capt. Paul led in a speech of one hour. Judge Allen replied in one hour, with Paul fifteen minutes to speak and Allen closed the discussion with a fifteen minutes reply to Paul.

Capt. Paul claimed that he and his friends are the Democratic party because they had a majority in both houses of the Legislature and had elected several county judges, but he claimed that they are the ones who stood aloof from the Convention of the Nation.

Judge Allen replied at the same time to always be on hand at the proper time, was within hailing distance and assisted in removing Mr. D. from the gas house. He was unconscious for a short time, but soon recovered when removed to the open air.
